

The Redstone Companies supports Kris Brown's Kick Club and Texas Children's Hospital

April 25, 2008 – Kris Brown presented a check for $120,684.20 to Texas Children's Hospital from the Kris Brown Kick Club from this past NFL football season. The Kick Club, launched in 2003 by Houston Texans kicker, Kris Brown and his wife Amy, is designed to help the patients and families of Texas Children's Hospital. For every point Kris Brown scores in the regular season, the Browns, along with corporate sponsors, donate money to Texas Children's charity care program. The Redstone Companies is one of the major sponsors supporting the Kick Club.

Kris Brown's inspiration to create the Kick Club came from personal experience. At the age of 11, Kris's sister was diagnosed with a rare form of cancer. Brown remembers support he and his family received during that time and felt a desire to give back to the community. Since its inception in 2003, the program has raised more than $575,000, providing financial relief to families facing overwhelming medical costs.
